Friday 28th January 2022

Dear Parents,

We have had a challenging week at Broadbottom, with significant staff absence, and at this point may still have staff off next week.

As you will all be too familiar, the situation with negative testing is on a daily basis, and at this point some of our staff will not be able to confirm their attendance until Monday.

Therefore, unfortunately school will have to cancel clubs next week, with the hope of recommencing them again from Tuesday the 8th of February 2022.

I am aware that you have not received confirmation yet of the clubs your child will be attending, we will get something out to you next week with this information, or you can call into the school office.

Parent evening was scheduled for the 7th of February 2022. Rates continue to be very high in our school community at present. Therefore, parent consultations have been postponed until after half term, when we will confirm the new date.

Thank you for your understanding have a good weekend.

Regards
